BOND COOPERED.Newfoundland's Exciting Election Results in Tie.*Lieutenant Governor May Order Another General Election.

Complete returns from the general elections of November 2 show that Sir Robert Bond, the premier, and Sir Edward Morris, the leader of the opposition forces, will each have 18 supporters in the legislature.

Late yesterday the vote of the last district to be heard from, St. Barbe, was received, showing the election of Clapp, the Bond candidate, by 305 majority.

The situation is the most unique in Newfoundland political records, and may be settled only by the ordering of another general election, which will undoubtedly be done by the lieutenant governor if neither party is able to form a government which will have the confidence of the legislature.

In the third division of Harbor Grace, Hon. Mr. Dawe, minister of fisheries in the Bond cabinet, was elected on the face of the returns by only one majority. Next week a recount will be held before the supreme court.

Should the recount show the defeat of Dawe, the opposition would have two majority, but a speaker would have to be chosen, thus leaving a margin of one vote on the floor of the legislature, a majority too slight for any government to depend upon for any length of time.

If the parties continue to stand 18 to 18, the election of a speaker by either side would give the opposition side a slight advantage on the floor, but as the parties now stand there is no certainty that a speaker can be chosen, unless by mutual agreement. What the outcome of the deadlock will be is problematical.

Mackerel Taken Near Halifax.

About 400 mackerel were taken at Cow Bay, N. S., on Sunday night. The fish run about two-thirds large and were purchased by Frank Henrion. About 900 were taken at Ketch Harbor and purchased by Arthur Bontiller. This is a splendid catch for this date in the season, and as this fish are in good demand in Boston, the fishermen will reap in a good profit. Many fishermen to the westward have taken in their traps, but as the fish are said to be going that way, a new "set" will likely be made. Several American fishermen are off the Cow Bay coast, but as Sunday night's catch was made in seines close in shore they have not likely participated in the good luck.

STEAM TRAWLER SPRAY IN.Had Been Some Anxiety at Boston for Her Safety.

After a terrible battle with wind and wave which lasted for over a week, the steam trawler Spray, Capt. Michael Green, came into Boston yesterday, over a week late, with a fare of 35,000 pounds of fine fish.

Some anxiety had been felt at Boston about the Spray, for it was known that when she left port on November 1 for the fishing bank her boilers were not in the best condition. It was feared that in the storm that she encountered she might lose her power and founder in the trough of the sea.

"We had a mighty tough time of it," said the captain. "For a week we were on Georges Banks and right in the track of the trans-Atlantic liners. More than once they passed us so close that we could have tossed a biscuit aboard and the Canarder Campana was so near that I spoke with her passengers."

"The only salvation for us during all of that time was that the weather was clear and we could see the ships coming and they could see us."

"When things got better last Monday we made up for lost time and got our fish in two days."

W. F. Robinson, the Anacortes codfish man, claims the distinction of having originated the phrase, "Anacortes, the Gloucester of the Pacific." He says that the first year he brought his Gloucester codfishermen to the coast and sent them up to Alaska in his own vessels, he got up a label for his codfish which read, "Codfish caught by Gloucester fishermen and packed at Anacortes, the Gloucester of the Pacific." Since that time, he says that Anacortes has always been called, "The Gloucester of the Pacific."—Pacific Fisherman.

HERRING VERY SCARCE.Bay of Islands Has Spell of Rainy Warm Weather.*Many Vessels Have Arrived But Loading Is Slow.

The herring situation at Bay of Islands, N. F., is anything but rosy at present. Herring are very scarce and warm, rainy weather is bothering the herring catchers. All are praying for colder weather to set in.

A letter to the Times, dated November 5 and continued up to November 8, says that the recent arrivals have been sch. Oriole on November 2, schs. Corona, Avalon and Arthur James on November 4 and sch. Lottie G. Merchant the day following. There may have been others at Woods Island but they had not been reported at Birchy Cove.

On a week ago Wednesday night, there had been a heavy rain fall which washed away all the snow that had accumulated in the early part of the week. The weather on Thursday was mild with light easterly winds.

Since Saturday, October 31, very few herring had been taken. The run that was on at Wood Island and Middle Arm suddenly left, the herring acting about as they did last season at the same time, and the native fishermen said they were not looking for any large run until the weather changed and became cooler.

Sch. Oregon arrived on Friday, and before she came to anchor she was surrounded by boats loaded with men anxious to ship. This season there are plenty of men who are only too anxious to get on board of American crafts.

Schs. Corona and Arthur James got under way for Middle Arm on Friday and up to that time there had been no report of any herring strike of consequence.

There have been no additions to the fleet of Nova Scotia vessels which arrived, there in number, the first of the season.

Mr. Acker, manager of the Atlantic Fisheries Co. of Halifax, who is on the ground, says that but few of the Nova Scotia vessels will engage in the herring fishery this season. All the vessels of his fleet will take barrelled herring, which will not interfere with the American fleet.

Telegraphic advices from Bay of Islands yesterday state that the rainy weather still continues and that they have had no cold weather recently. Some of the vessels are part loaded while one or two are half loaded.

The vessels farthest along are schs. Essex and Fannie A. Smith which are nearly loaded, but the scarcity of herring prevent them finishing up, the former having been over a week trying to get 300 barrels and has not yet secured them, as herring are still very scarce indeed, both in the Middle Arm and at Woods Island. Sch. Henry M. Stanley had half a load.

Mackerel Figures.

The catch of salt mackerel of the New England fleet to date is 20,696 barrels against 30,636 barrels at this time last year. The imports of new salt mackerel at Boston to date are 35,695 barrels against 18,007 barrels at this time last year. The catch of fresh mackerel by the New England fleet to date has been 57,566 barrels against 56,169 barrels at this time last year. The imports of fresh mackerel at Boston to date are 12,439 barrels against 7604 barrels at this time last year.

Herring Notes.

The following Gloucester vessels have arrived in Humber Arm: Oregon, Flygore, Avalop, Bohlin, Lottie G. Merchant, Fleet, Corona, Cook, Oriole, Arsenau, Arthur James, Turner, J. A. Bradley, Arsenau and Clintonia, Captain Squires.
Good hauls were made at Middle Arm Monday, as high as fifteen barrels to a fleet being taken. Sch. Fanny Smith, Capt. Joe Bonia, is expected to sail in a day or two. The Ingomar, Capt. Wallace Parsons, expects to be loaded next week.

ADRIFT FOR HOURS.

Four Men from Sch. Elizabeth Silsbee Landed at Provincetown..

Without Food or Water 48 Hours When Rescued.

After being lost in the fog and drifting in a small dory for twenty-eight hours four Boston fishermen were rescued by the schooner Lizzie, Capt. Johnson, bound for Halifax. The men arrived in Provincetown today aboard the schooner Natalie J. Nelson, Capt. Albert Larkin, to which they were transferred in mid ocean.

The men are Thomas Adams, Daniel Kerrigan, Benjamin Thomas and John Haskell.

They were attached to the fishing schooner Elizabeth Silsbee from Boston and were fishing in a dory off Highland Light, twenty miles from Provincetown, when the fog shut down on them Tuesday morning. They tried to make their way back to the fishing schooner by means of horns. They had no water and no food in the dory. When the fog settled down it became very cold. They drifted in the dory until Wednesday afternoon when the fog lifted. Soon after they sighted the schooner Lizzie, which answered their signals and picked them up.

Nov. 14.

Good Sailing.

Sch. Margie Smith, Capt. Paul Coffee, left T wharf yesterday afternoon, making a passage to Pew's wharf in this city in two hours and 20 minutes. They sighted sch. Ida M. Silva a mile ahead, and when on the Silva's quarter the latter hoisted her jib, but the Smith reached Gloucester three miles in the lead. Capt. Coffee reckons that he beat the Silva one-half mile to five. He is willing to challenge the Silva or any other vessel of the class of the Smith for a $100 wager. Many of the crew are old haddockers and were surprised to see what they thought was "an old tub" beat a "haddock."

WASHED FROM WHEEL.

Sch. Susan and Mary Lost One of Her Crew.

Ephraim Nickerson Drowned and Mates Helpless to Aid.

Sch. Susan and Mary, Capt. Joseph Spinney, arrived at T wharf, Boston, this morning with her flag at half mast for the loss of Ephraim Nickerson, one of the crew, who was washed from the wheel last Thursday and drowned.

Capt. Spinney reported that the accident happened during a heavy gale of wind. The vessel was bound home from Western bank and was off Seal island when a very heavy sea struck the vessel. Nickerson, who was at the wheel, was washed away and over the rail into the sea. There was no chance to launch a dory as it was far too rough to attempt it. Nickerson was seen astern and the men who were watching him saw him grasp the log line, but evidently he could not hold on, for he soon disappeared.

Nickerson, who was a well known fisherman, was about 22 years of age, unmarried, and a native of Lower East Pueblo, N. S.
